Gary CUNNINGHAM, FAIA
"The Design of Sustainability – Science and Sensibility"
8 February 2011

While the practice of sustainability goes way back, it is a current topic these days. We will be discussing sustainability in multiple contexts, be it the newest technology, lifestyle, or time tested regional design, and perhaps, how all of these can flow together to present a new aesthetic and approach to the built environment

ABOUT THE DALLAS ARCHITECTURE FORUM

The Dallas Architecture Forum provides a continuing and challenging public discourse on architecture and urban design in - and for - the Dallas area. The Forum offers presentations of architecture through public lectures by designers, critics, and historians; through topical discussions; and through occasional study tours to buildings and cities locally and throughout the world. The Dallas Architecture Forum serves as an inclusive arena where people interested in and concerned with the built environment, non-professionals and professionals alike, may interact intellectually and socially.

Our membership comes from business, development, public affairs, education, the arts and from the design fields.

This mix of interests and ties is one of the strengths we bring to our involvement with architecture. Support for the Forum's programs is a grassroots effort, coming from membership subscriptions at all levels and from the generous sponsorship of Forum seasons and events. Visit dallasarchitectureforum.org or call 214-764-2406.
